Huntington Beach's Diego Pasillas a big winner on 'World of Dance'

BY MATT SZABO

When the moment came and the results were revealed, Huntington Beach resident Diego Pasillas almost couldn't believe it.

"It was like a dream state almost," Pasillas said. "All of the confetti and all of the cannons were going off. It didn't even feel real."

The 17-year-old was much richer, but a journey to the top also had been completed.

Pasillas' three-member contemporary dance trio MDC 3 had won the fourth season of the NBC show "World of Dance" — and they get to split the $1-million grand prize that comes with it.

Pasillas, 17-year-old Madison Smith and 15-year-old Emma Mather comprised the winning team. MDC 3 won the world final show in March, and the episode aired Wednesday night.

"It's definitely been super-hectic," said Smith, who is from Murrieta and just graduated high school, of the whirlwind since the episode aired. "Our social media has definitely been blowing up the past few days. We've been getting a lot of love and support from fans in our Direct Messages, and it's just super-great to see how we're inspiring others."

MDC 3 is based out of Placentia, and Mather's mother, Shannon, serves as the group's choreographer. They have been performing together for close to seven years, Pasillas said.

The group also auditioned for the first three seasons on "World of

TK-6 schools seeking reopening waivers could use testing super site to open at O.C. fairgrounds

BY SARA CARDINE

A second coronavirus testing super site will soon open at Costa Mesa's shuttered O.C. fairgrounds to increase countywide testing capacity and accommodate elementary schools seeking waivers from the state to resume in-person TK-6 instruction in the upcoming school year.

The Orange County Board of Supervisors announced the plan in a meeting Tuesday, agreeing to allow school officials, students and staff who may be exhibiting symptoms or who may have been exposed to the virus to make use of the free county-run testing sites.

A super site at the Anaheim Convention Center has administered more than 10,000 tests since July 15. Supervisor Doug Chaffee, who authored Tuesday's motion alongside fellow Supervisor Andrew Do said letting schools use the sites would facilitate the waiver application process.

"What this does is provide a critical component that allows schools to reopen, should they choose to," Chaffee said. "There should be more than one [testing] site — the plan-

LOCAL ELECTIONS

Huntington Beach race has 15 candidates for 3 open seats

With incumbent Mayor Lyn Semeta and Councilman Patrick Brenden not running, battle for City Council seats offers intrigue.

BY MATT SZABO

Fifteen candidates have qualified to run for three available seats on the Huntington Beach City Council this fall.

Huntington Beach City Clerk Robin Estanislau confirmed that all 15 candidates filed their paperwork by Wednesday's deadline. The election is scheduled for Nov. 3.

With Mayor Lyn Semeta and Patrick Brenden recently announcing they will not be running for reelection, three spots on the seven-member council are available. Councilwoman Jill Hardy will be terming out.

Candidates will appear in a free interactive virtual forum hosted by the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday at 11 a.m.

To register and receive the Zoom link, go to hbchamber.com.

Here is a quick look at the 15 candidates for City Council, in alphabetical order:

John Briscoe: A member of the Ocean View School District board of trustees since 2006, Briscoe is a local businessman who also is a marketing professor at Long Beach State. Briscoe is concurrently running against incumbent Alan Lowenthal for election to the U.S. House of Representatives representing California's 47th congressional district, which is centered in Long Beach.

Brian Burley: Burley is a local small business owner. At the age of 26, he was one of six elected to the Orange County Republican Central Committee in March, representing the 72nd district. Burley finished third in the top-two primary for the U.S. House District 48 seat and calls himself a pro-business candidate. He reported an income of $10,000 to $100,000 for his informational technology job at USC.

Sonya Green: A 14-year resident of Huntington Beach, Green is a local small business owner of a staffing company. As such, her platform involves promoting small businesses to stimulate the local economy, and she also has identified public safety as a priority. She declared no

Laguna Beach adopts historic preservation ordinance

Don Leach | Staff Photographer

THE MAIN STREET Bar at 1450 South Coast Hwy. in the village district of Laguna Beach is included on the 1981 Historic Resources Inventory.

BY LILLY NGUYEN

After years of public workshops and meetings, Laguna Beach City Council members adopted an ordinance that will return the city's historic preservation program to being voluntary.

The ordinance removes the city's current inventory of historic structures from 1981, which was acknowledged in the 1989 historic preservation ordinance.

Efforts to update the historic register began in 2013 as the register became outdated, with many of the structures listed having been modified or demolished in addition to the erection of new properties.

Updates include the usage of state codes to replace the local historic rating system, concurrent review of applications for the historic register and incentives, elimination of age of the property as a criterion and changing when design review is required for historic properties.

It also clarifies the definition of a historic resource and expands the incentives provided to property owners, while adding "owner consent" as a criterion of eligibility for the city's historic register.

"We've heard a lot of good testimony on both sides," Mayor Bob Whalen said before the vote. "I think resetting this ordinance back to its roots of a voluntary program is what the majority of council has been saying since 2018. I think we need to continue through with that tonight."

Councilwoman Toni Iseman voted against the ordinance and a resolution revising the city's general plan, residential design guidelines and local coastal program. The state Coastal Commission will need to certify the amendment to the latter.

"Our old way of doing business wasn't the problem. The old way of implementing what we had was the problem, so people did not understand the value of historic designation," Iseman said, reiterating her position on the revision of the ordinance on July 14.

"What I'm concerned about is how do we let people know the value of owning the historic nature of their property and utilizing

D.A. files charges in protest gun case

BY HILLARY DAVIS

A Newport Beach man has been charged with two misdemeanors for allegedly pulling a loaded gun at Black Lives Matter protesters during a local protest in June.

The Orange County district attorney's office charged Travis Patrick White, 48, with one count of brandishing a firearm in public and one count of possession of a loaded firearm in a public place, prosecutors announced Friday.

White faces up to two years in county jail if convicted on both charges. He is scheduled to be arraigned at the Harbor Justice Center in Newport Beach on Oct. 20.

According to the D.A.'s office, White exchanged words with one of the protesters June 3 as a procession reached the area of 30th Street and Newport Boulevard. The protest was held to call out racial injustice in the wake of the death of George Floyd while in custody of Minneapolis police, one of dozens of similar protests in Orange County over the summer.

When protesters confronted White over his words, he pulled out a loaded semiautomatic handgun from his backpack, cocked it and pointed it up in the air, prosecutors said. Video and photos from passersby show White, shirtless and in sandals, holding a gun in the air as protesters back away.

No one was injured during the confrontation.

"It is scary that someone who disagrees with your right to express yourself freely during a peaceful protest would elevate that to the level of lethal force. That should cause all of us alarm," said District Atty. Todd Spitzer in a statement. "This individual brought a gun to a peaceful protest. He was looking for a confrontation and when confronted with opinions that he disagrees with he pulled out his gun. That is not the America we want and those actions will not be tolerated."

Newport Beach police arrested White on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon and criminal threats, but prosecutors filed the possession and brandishing charges because they could prove them beyond a reasonable doubt in court, a D.A. spokeswoman said.

Prosecutors have not yet announced charges, if any, against the motorist who drove his car through a crowd marching on Balboa Boulevard at the same protest, grazing several without injury.

ning of it is already in the works.”

The move follows new guidelines released last week by the California Department of Public Health allowing TK-6 elementary school classes in counties that have been off a state-wide coronavirus monitoring list for at least 14 days to apply for a waiver to reopen physical campuses for those grade levels.

“COVID-related risks in schools serving elementary-age students (grades TK-6) are lower and different from risks to staff and to students in schools serving older students,” the Aug. 3 notice stated. “There appears to be lower risk of child-to-child or child-to-adult transmission in children under age 12, and the risk of infection and serious illness in elementary school children is particularly low.”

The county landed on the state’s watch list June 29, following a surge in coronavirus infections and hospitalizations but has been

County health officials on Friday reported 683 new cases, for a countywide total of 42,854 and a rate of about nearly 122 cases per 100,000 residents. Another 20 deaths bring the total number of fatalities to 789.

About 436 people were being hospitalized with COVID-19, while 152 were in ICU units — on July 14, 722 patients were being treated, with 238 in the ICU.

The Orange County Health Care Agency began accepting school waiver applications on Aug. 4, and in seven days, more than 50 sites had applied, most of them private, religious or charter schools.

Still, it’s uncertain whether or when Orange County will be removed

Dance.”

“It was definitely the perfect timing,” Mather said. “I think if we were to get on the show any other year, we would have been too young and we would have cracked under pressure. I’m glad the timing worked out like it did.”

MDC 3 had the highest score in the semifinal show that aired Tuesday night, which gave the trio confidence going into the final. The last show, filmed at the outset of the novel coronavirus pandemic, had no live audience, which provided another challenge.

But the trio’s performance to Celine Dion’s “I Surrender” earned them an average score of 95.7 from judges Jennifer Lopez, Derek Hough and Ne-Yo.

That was enough to beat the other three finalists, Oxygen, Jefferson y Adriana and Geometrie Variable.

“It’s the tricks, it’s the amazing things you can do, but honestly, it’s the quality of your dance that gave me [goosebumps],” Lopez told the group after its final performance. “It was breathtaking at moments, and I could not take my eyes off of you guys ... To be that consistent is really a testament to how talented you guys are.”

Pasillas, who attends school online and will be a high school senior, said he definitely plans to go on a shopping spree. But he also wants to save for an apartment in Los Angeles.

“I graduate next year, so I really want to move to L.A. and pursue my dreams in the dance industry, maybe book a world tour with an artist,” he said. “Hopefully, when I’m older, [I can] teach at a dance convention.”

He said that MDC 3 also plans to keep performing together in the future.

“We’re going to be forever grateful for this experience,” Pasillas said. “It taught us so much as dancers individually, and it brought us closer together as a trio. We plan to stay together as a trio and do more projects and music videos maybe. Eventually, if this COVID thing wears off, we want to go on the World of Dance live tour.”

it and maximizing its benefit?” Iseman said.

The councilwoman made a motion to direct city staff to create an educational and promotional program to inform Realtors and architects for new homeowners on the benefits of being included on the city’s historic register, which was approved as part of the actions taken Tuesday.

Councilman Peter Blake dissented on the motion.

Whalen agreed with Iseman on the creation of an education and promotion program on incentives, adding that he felt there would be a lot of homeowners in the future that might consider the historic preservation program because of housing costs.

Clerical revisions were made to the ordinance after the July 14 meeting, largely correcting misspellings and more clearly restating information on when determinations for the historic register begin and are recorded and the role of the Heritage Committee in the design-review process for historic properties.

Residents that spoke on Tuesday were both in support of and against the ordinance, with some thanking the council, while others raised concerns about possible environmental impacts.

Opponents were largely against the voluntary nature of the program, arguing that it would allow for the destruction of the city’s history.

TESTING

from the watch list — a Department of Public Health representative said Friday updates to the list have been “currently paused while we work through the backlog of data from technical issues with the state’s CalREDIE reporting system.”

Dr. Clayton Chau, director of the Orange County Health Care Agency and acting county health officer, said officials have calculated data and “see a trend where we will probably be off the list.”

“Even if we were off the list, it would take 14 days before schools could reopen,” Chau said Friday by email.

“But the problem is, even if our numbers are good for a number of days, [if] we have a jump over the state threshold, we would have to restart the clock.”

Do said whenever schools are allowed to reopen, they’ll need to ensure teachers, students and staff can be regularly tested.

Increasing the county’s capacity and allowing schools access to testing will help them meet state requirements that otherwise would be too steep.

“School districts aren’t in the business of doing testing — they’re not geared up for that,” Do said Friday.

To be granted a waiver, schools must provide tests for the symptomatic and potentially exposed with reasonable turnaround times.

They must also periodically test asymptomatic individuals. Do estimated the county’s testing site at the Anaheim Convention Center typically offers results in 24 to 36 hours.

Waiver-seeking schools and districts must attest they’ve consulted with labor, parent and community organizations. They must also publish on their websites a reopening plan highlighting protocols on cleaning and disinfection, reduced class sizes, face coverings and social distancing and health screenings, among others.

With the new school year approaching, plans for a new testing super site at Costa Mesa’s O.C. fairgrounds are already shaping up.

OC Fair & Event Center spokeswoman Terry Moore confirmed the new site is tentatively scheduled to open on Aug. 24. Testing is by appointment only and will take place Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

CITY OF NEWPORT BEACH
 NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on Thursday, August 27, 2020, at 10:00 a.m. or soon thereafter as the matter shall be heard, a public hearing will be conducted in the Council Chambers at 100 Civic Center Drive, Newport Beach. The Zoning Administrator of the City of Newport Beach will consider the following application:

AT&T Small Cell SLC0902 – A coastal development permit (CDP) to allow the installation of a small cell wireless facility on a City-owned streetlight pole. Project implementation will be fully contained within the public right-of-way on 38th Street and includes the following: (1) Removal and replacement of an existing City streetlight; (2) Installation of a small cell wireless facility that consists of four remote radio units, a raycap disconnect, and an omni-directional antenna within a 12-inch diameter screening shroud. This equipment would be fixed to the top of the replaced streetlight pole for a maximum height of 27 feet, 6 inches; and (3) Establishment of supporting equipment in an adjacent below grade vault. A minor use permit (UP2019-032) for this project was previously reviewed and approved by the Zoning Administrator on May 28, 2020. Since that approval, it has been determined that a CDP is also required.

Section 332(c)(7) of U.S. Code Title 47 (Telecommunications) preserves the City’s authority over zoning and land use decisions to regulate some aspects of the aesthetics and placement of wireless service facilities. However, federal law prohibits the City from rendering any decision based indirectly or directly on potential health and environmental impacts related to radio frequency (RF) emissions of wireless service facilities that will comply with the Federal Communications Commission’s regulations. The development will be consistent with all applicable provisions of Newport Beach Municipal Code (NBMC) Chapters 20.49 and 21.49 (Wireless Telecommunications Facilities), as well as City Council Policy L-23 (The Siting of Wireless Telecommunications Equipment on City-Owned Property), which provide the regulatory and policy framework for allowing the installation of small cell sites on City property. Under the current executed Master License Agreement, AT&T, the wireless carrier, is responsible for all installation, maintenance, and repair associated with the deployment of this telecommunication project, including all related costs and expenses.

The project is categorically exempt under Sections 15302 and 15303 of the State CEQA (California Environmental Quality Act) Guidelines - Class 2 (Replacement or Reconstruction) and Class 3 (New Construction or Conversion of Small Structures), respectively.

All interested parties may appear and present testimony in regard to this application. If you challenge this project in court, you may be limited to raising only those issues you raised at the public hearing or in written correspondence delivered to the City, at, or prior to, the public hearing. The application may be continued to a specific future meeting date, and if such an action occurs, additional public notice of the continuance will not be provided. Administrative procedures for appeals are provided in the Newport Beach Municipal Code Chapters and 21.64. Fees are required to appeal any final action on a Coastal Development Permit to the Planning Commission or City Council. The project site is located within the appeal area of the coastal zone; therefore, final action by the City to approve a Coastal Development Permit may be appealed to the California Coastal Commission.
