When the host club wins, the celebration cannot be contained.

So it was when Balboa Yacht Club's Jeffrey Petersen and his crew sailed through the finish line in the decisive race of the 54th annual Governor's Cup International Youth Match Racing Championship on Saturday.

Spectator boats blew their horns in celebration, and on land, cheers and a round of applause emanated from the bar from members watching a livestream of the regatta.

In a back-and-forth final, Petersen emerged victorious 3-2 against Denmark's Emil Kjaer, winning the last two races of the championship series to give Balboa Yacht Club its second winner of the last four Governor's Cup events.

"I love that boat a lot," Petersen said. "You'll see pictures of me. I went and kissed it, said, 'Thank you, boat.' I mean, the boats are great, but this one in particular has a got a little special place in our hearts now."

Christophe Killian had been the most recent winner for Balboa Yacht Club in 2017. Australia's Harry Price won in 2018 and then New Zealand's Nick Egnot-Johnson in 2019. The Governor's Cup was canceled last year because of the coronavirus pandemic.

Joining Petersen on the boat were main trimmer Max Brennan and bowman Scott Mais, both members of the Newport Harbor High School class of 2019. Petersen graduated from Mater

'Rockin' Fig Day' to be considered

The H.B. council could take up the item on Tuesday. A paddle out is scheduled Aug. 28.

BY MATT SZABO

Details are emerging on ways to honor Rick "Rockin' Fig" Fignetti, the Huntington Beach surfing celebrity who died July 16 after suffering a heart attack.

A paddle out organized by Huntington Surf and Sport owner Aaron Pai and Fignetti's good friend Don Ramsey is scheduled for Aug. 28. The paddle out to honor Fignetti, who was 64 when he died, will be held at 9 a.m. at the north side of the Huntington Beach Pier. It will be followed by a celebration at Pier Plaza, with live music, from noon to 4 p.m.

There also may be a "Rockin' Fig Day" each year in Surf City. A Huntington Beach City Council agenda item up for consideration at Tuesday night's meeting would establish a day named in honor of Fignetti annually each Saturday of the Surf City Days event.

Surf City Days, which includes several beach activities, is typically celebrated in September after Labor Day, but this year it was delayed to Oct. 9-10 due to the coronavirus pandemic. Therefore the first "Rockin' Fig Day," if

Hoag gets $3M from the Iacocca Family Foundation

The donation will expand the type 1 diabetes program at the hospital.

BY CITY NEWS SERVICE

Hoag Memorial Hospital Presbyterian Monday announced a $3-million gift from the Iacocca Family Foundation to expand a program for type 1 diabetes at the Mary & Dick Allen Diabetes Center.

In appreciation of the gift, Hoag is naming the Mary & Lee Iacocca Program in Type 1 Diabetes to honor the foundation's mission to fund diabetes research that could lead to a cure for the disease and alleviate its complications.

Onetime Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. executive Lee Iacocca, who died in 2019, established the foundation in 1984, after his wife Mary died from complications of type 1 diabetes.

Since its inception, the Iacocca Family Foundation has funded more than $40 million in promising research projects.

"We could not be more grateful to the Iacocca Family Foundation for supporting Hoag's role in becoming the preeminent, trusted destination for comprehensive type 1 diabetes care in Orange County," said Flynn A. Andrizzi, president of the Hoag Hospital Founda-

Locals descend upon Fairview Park for a day of festivities, music

BY SARA CARDINE

Residents from Costa Mesa and beyond came to Fairview Park Saturday afternoon for a temporary revival of a beloved local tradition, albeit in a modified format, enjoying "Concert in the Park."

Hosted by the city and the Costa Mesa Foundation, the one-day affair attracted a large crowd, as friends and family members enjoyed a slate of activities — crafts for kids, a rib-eating contest and a dunk tank — as well as three live musical performances.

Until a pandemic cancellation last year, "Concerts in the Park" was traditionally hosted by the foundation as a series of single-act tion. "This gift facilitates research and educational programs to expand our knowledge of diabetes prevention and management and will help provide truly comprehensive, connected and customized care for the lives of people living with diabetes and their families," Andrizzi said. Hoag's Mary & Dick Allen Diabetes Center offers traditional clinical services, dietitians, nurse educators, health coaches, support groups, pump trainings and a specialized pharmacist, as well as access to cutting-edge technology through clinical trials.

"Through the Mary & Lee Iacocca Program, patients with type 1 diabetes have an Orange County hub for patient-centered care across their entire lifespan," according to a hospital statement.

"From supporting pediatric patients and their families, to successfully transitioning adolescents into young adulthood, to navigating healthy pregnancies and to reducing long-term complications in older populations, the program provides care that is tailored to an individual's personality, cultural upbringing and values."

Lee and Mary Iacocca's daughters, Lia Assad and Kate Hentz, said they are carrying on their parents' legacy by establishing the program on the West Coast on behalf of the family's foundation.

"Until we find a cure, it feels right to help people with diabetes through a program that has an immediate impact on their day-to-day lives," Hentz said.

Assad, an Orange County resident, agreed.

"It's important to me that families right here in our community have the resources and support they need," she said.

concerts held each Tuesday evening throughout July.

When amassing the volunteer hours needed to pull off such a feat got too tiring, foundation members were going to hold off on an event in 2021.

That's when Costa Mesa Mayor John Stephens talked with some city staff about turning a biennial Independence Day celebration into a full-day concert of local musical talent.

Saturday's performers included Mariachi Juvenil

Herencia Michoacana, country band Jasmine Fields and rock band the Tijuana Dogs.

Members of the Costa Mesa Foundation poured libations in a beer and wine garden, with all the proceeds going back to the nonprofit organizations and volunteer groups who helped organize, set up and man the show.

With Saturday's festivities complete, it will be up to board members to decide the future of the series moving forward.

100 YEARS OLD

AL HOBSON, ONE OF NEWPORT BEACH'S FINEST RESIDENTS IS TURNING 100 YEARS OLD AUGUST 1, 2021.

Al was born in Seattle, WA. There he became a renowned boat builder. Al served in the Navy during World War II and after the war he moved to Newport Beach. Because of his quality work a large company hired him to oversee the installers of interiors to most of California's court houses. This was a very hard; demanding job but Al still found time to manage his son's Harbor area baseball team for several years. Al's skills took that team to become league champions out of 1300 boys.

In the early 50's Al built his forever home where he still lives today. Through the years Al has always had time to listen to his friends problems and lend a good word. If more people were like Al Hobson, what a wonderful world this would be.

Happy Birthday Al and may God continue to bless you.

Dei in 2020.

The final series provided great intrigue from the beginning, as the initial race of the best-of-five championship round had a photo finish that put the Danish team in front.

Petersen's crew endured penalties early in the show-down with Kjaer, falling behind 2-1 in the final, but they overcame that deficit in back-to-back elimination aces.

That accomplishment was in jeopardy in the last race of the series when Petersen's boat had an issue with the jib halyard approaching the windward mark.

Mais, who said he was proud to be included among the list of sailors who have found their names on the Governor's Cup, talked about the team's resolve in that moment.

"I think that was a really good moment for us because although we had something go wrong with our boat, it showed that we had the composure to stay calm and just fix the issue and deal with what was happening, instead of breaking down or complaining about it," Mais said. "Just move on, move forward, and sail the best we can, and ultimately win."

Petersen repeatedly praised the work of his fellow crew members, and at the awards ceremony, he joked that Brennan and Mais finished in front of him in every race, referring to where he was steering the boat from as skipper.

Brennan said the first emotion he felt was one of relief when their boat crossed the finish line for the title.

"The issue with the jib halyard, I think the boys managed to stay calm, but it's always a little nerve-racking when you have a technical failure," Brennan said. "To realize that we weren't going to lose off of that was a big relief."

The Lew Beery Continents Cup was handed out for the first time.

In a regatta that featured seven American teams and three from Europe, the award was presented to the top three crews from the best-performing continent.

With three semifinalists — Newport Harbor Yacht Club's Morgan Pinckney and Annapolis Yacht Club's Porter Kavle were the others — the honor went to the Americans.

The results of the initial double round robin, in this case, were indicative of future success.

Both Petersen and Kjaer swept their semifinals after earning the top-two seeds. The other two semifinals berths were decided in an additional round robin, or repechage.

"It's a pretty difficult situation actually because on the one hand, you want to go straight to the semifinals to be assured to get into the semifinal," Kjaer said. "On the other hand, you actually want to go to the repechage to get the extra training and extra time in the boat."

"It's actually an advantage to be in the repechage, I'm 100% sure, because the boats are completely new for us. We've never sailed in these boats before, and it's the same for most people when you go to match-racing events."

Kjaer will certainly consider his experience at the Governor's Cup as valuable training, as he remains in town for the Youth Match Racing World Championship, which will also be hosted by the Balboa Yacht Club from Aug. 9 to 14.

Pinckney, whose uncle, Mike, won the Governor's Cup in 1982 and 1983, placed third in the regatta to secure a podium finish at just 16 years old.

The young Newport Harbor Yacht Club standout is eligible for six more Governor's Cups, as competitors do not age out until their 23rd birthday.

Balboa Yacht Club's David Wood finished in fifth place in the regatta.

Barbara Dapper Travers
June 4, 1937 - July 14, 2021

Barbara "Barbie" Dapper Travers, 84, passed away peacefully at her Laguna Beach home due to complications of a stroke, surrounded by her family and loved ones. Fortunately, in the days leading up to her passing, she was able to spend time with her children and many of her grandchildren, sharing memories and many laughs.

Barbie was born at Wilshire Hospital, Los Angeles, in 1937, daughter of Jane Ann and Vernon Dapper. Barbie grew up in Glendale and La Canada Flintridge and went to John Muir High School. While attending UCLA to get her teaching degree, she joined the Pi Beta Phi Sorority and the Song Leading Team, which she lead her senior year, and met many of her lifelong friends and future husband, Gary Davidson. They moved to Laguna Beach in the mid 1960's and had 4 children.

Barbie married David Hirschler in 1975 and gained 4 daughters - a very 'Brady Bunch' situation with her 4 children. After David's passing in 2007, Barbie married Robert Travers, a friend from junior high school. They spent the next 14 years between Napa and Laguna Beach.

Barbie was very active in her local community and with local charities, such as The Adoption Guild. Barbie loved the beach, entertaining family and friends and traveling, especially to the south of France, Italy and Hawaii.

Barbie is survived by her spouse, Bob, her brothers, Brian and David Dapper, her children, Eric Davidson(Joanie), Peter Davidson(Angela), Jana Day(Dan) and Katie Halperin(Glenn) and 10 grandchildren - Danielle Duley and Joanie Davidson, Taylor, Nicole and Gary Davidson, Eliza and Danny Day and Holly, Harrison and Lucy Halperin.

In lieu of flowers, please send donations to The Adoption Guild of Southern California at P.O. Box 95, Corona Del Mar 92625 or on their website - adoptionguild.org
