Grant to help protect Bommer Canyon Preserve

$1M from the California Natural Resources Agency will help Irvine Ranch Conservancy reduce risk of wildfires.

BY LILLY NGUYEN

Wildfire mitigation will begin in the Bommer Canyon Preserve this month, thanks to a $1-million grant from the California Natural Resources Agency.

The Irvine Ranch Conservancy announced Tuesday that the city of Irvine received the grant and that the conservancy will execute plans to help reduce the risk of wildfire in 49 acres of the preserve. The initial work is expected to include fence installation, mowing and installation of an irrigation system to hasten the "grow and kill" cycles of weed seeds in the soil, according to the conservancy.

The targeted site, south of Shady Canyon Drive is expected to be seeded with native vegetation in October 2025, with the initial phase expected to conclude in March 2026. Existing vegetation there is overrun by nonnative weeds and grass, which pose a potential fire hazard in the drier months, particularly in the summer.

Parts of Irvine have been designated as very high fire hazard severity zones, which includes the reserve at the city's southernmost point, according to CalFIRE.

Fountain Valley to consider pay raise for city manager

At its Tuesday meeting, the council will discuss the salary boost as well as rate changes to city's cab service for seniors.

BY ANDREW TURNER

When it convenes for the first time in four weeks, the Fountain Valley City Council is set to consider a raise for City Manager Maggie Le.

Le had served as deputy city manager prior to her appointment as Fountain Valley's top executive in June of 2022. She succeeded interim city manager Raul Godinez II, who had been filling in on an interim basis following former City Manager Rob Houston's move to the city of Orange.

Upon her promotion, Le made a starting salary of $245,000. Council members could approve a resolution that would see her annual base pay increase to $264,600.

Le graduated from Los Amigos High in 1996. Since returning to the city where she grew up in 2015, she has held a number of high-level positions. Le has also spent stints as an assistant to the city manager and as the interim director of human resources while working with the city of Fountain Valley.

Executive chef Manfred Lassahn and food and beverage director Michael Halloran went on road trips to other beach locales after the Hyatt Regency Huntington Beach Resort and Spa made the winning bid on a beachfront concession a few years ago.

They traveled to spots like Santa Monica and Venice Beach, to name a couple, just to see what the beach food scenes were like.

"We watched more what people were buying than what they were offering," Lassahn said. "What were they walking away with?"

The Hyatt team hopes that its new concession, located just steps from the sand at Huntington City Beach, is a Shor thing.

Shor restaurant held a ribbon-cutting ceremony Thursday evening, featuring Huntington Beach officials including Mayor Pro Tem Gracey Van Der Mark and Councilmen Pat Burns and Dan Kalmick.

"Since many visitors recreate at Bommer Canyon Preserve, our team will be reaching out to the community through signage and educational materials to explain the many benefits of the project as it unfolds," Robert Freese, the Irvine Ranch Conservancy restoration and enhancement program manager, said in the statement.

Officials with the Conservancy said the goal is to replace those same plants with less flammable native vegetation and natural fuel breaks. The Irvine Ranch Conservancy will continue managing the site on behalf of the city for five years after the work is done to ensure the new growth is sustainable.

"Partnering with the Irvine Ranch Conservancy to restore and maintain the historic Bommer Canyon Preserve ensures a more resilient and fire-resistant landscape in this beloved area," said Kristina Perigoue, a spokeswoman for Irvine. "With the increase in wildfires, it is vital that the native vegetation is restored and enhanced — ensuring sustainability and an improved habitat quality for wildlife."

al, patrons do get full service, chef Corina Rodriguez said. So far, the mix has been about half and half in terms of local customers and hotel guests.

The menu features about 25 items. Rodriguez said the top seller is the Shor Burger, a classic burger with double beef, double American cheese, Shor sauce and caramelized onions on a brioche bun.

A fish-and-chip sandwich is another highlight of a menu that also includes items like salads, pizza, tacos, a spicy tuna wrap and plenty of sides. Drink options include cocktails, with the passion fruit mai tai as a signature drink, along with draft beer and wine.

Rodriguez said everything on the menu is made totally from scratch.

"That goes for sauces, we hand-bread our fish, we do everything from scratch entirely," she said. "We want to do comfort, familiar classics but done up with a spin. We're really emphasizing flavor, giving it something a little bit extra that makes it original. We're trying to set ourselves above the rest."

Shor, 21500 Pacific Coast Hwy., is open daily from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., with extended weekend hours until 7 p.m. this summer.

Allison Residence - A request for a modification permit to allow an addition to an existing single-unit dwelling with a garage that is considered legal nonconforming due to its interior dimensions. The existing garage provides the minimum required depth of 20 feet; however, the existing width is substandard at 18 feet, 2 inches, whereas the requirement is 20 feet. The project is categorically exempt under Section 15303, of the State CEQA (California Environmental Quality Act) Guidelines under Class 3 (New Construction or Conversion of Small Structures).

All interested parties may appear and present testimony in regard to this application. Former O.C. coach faces 150 years to life for sexually abusing 4 players

BY SARA CARDINE

A former Orange County basketball coach is facing a maximum sentence of 150 years to life in prison after being convicted of sexually assaulting four young girls he coached, ranging in age from 11 to 17 years old.

Carlos Francisco Juarez, 48, of Costa Mesa was found guilty of 10 felony counts of committing a lewd act upon a child under 14, seven felony counts of lewd acts upon a child, two counts sexual penetration by foreign object of a minor and one count of oral copulation on a minor under 16 by a jury verdict on July 18, court records indicate.

The charges stemmed from multiple incidents that occurred between 2005 and 2008, according to court records, although charges were not filed until April 2019, after four people came forward with reports of the abuse.

Juarez was arrested outside his home in Costa Mesa on April 11 of that year by Irvine police who alleged he "groomed the victims from a young age, with the incidents beginning years after his first contact with them."

A coach primarily for club teams, including the O.C. Mustangs Basketball Club, Juarez also worked for Costa Mesa, Mater Dei, Tustin and Aliso Niguel high schools and offered private one-on-one lessons. He is believed to have coached each of the four victims at some point between 2005 and 2010, according to a release issued by county prosecutors following his conviction.

In one incident, an 11-year-old girl who took private lessons from him at a gym in Tustin, claimed he had her practice topless, after unsuccessfully attempting to have her remove all her clothes, the release stated. Later, after sexually assaulting the girl, Juarez reportedly gave her an envelope containing an unspecified amount of cash.

The former coach was also convicted of assaulting three more players — a 13-year-old girl whose home he moved into and who he abused over a four-year period, a 14-year-old he coached in private lessons in 2008 and a 13-year-old he forced to perform a sex act in exchange for the promise of making her a starting player, prosecutors reported.

Orange County Dist. Atty. Todd Spitzer said in a statement coaches are entrusted to help student athletes be the best in their respective sports, not to groom or exploit young people.

"These young women will forever bear the trauma of being sexually assaulted by someone they should have been able to trust," he said. "He robbed these young girls of their innocence, and he victimized girl after girl until he finally got caught."

Although Juarez was initially due to appear before a judge for sentencing Wednesday, the hearing was continued to Sept. 6.

Suspect arrested in connection with fatal traffic collision

BY LILLY NGUYEN

A Costa Mesa man has been arrested on suspicion of murder in connection to a fatal traffic collision earlier this year in Fountain Valley.

Fountain Valley police said they responded to reports of a traffic collision at around 4:52 p.m. on Feb. 26 at the intersection of Euclid Street and Slater Avenue. Authorities said a white 2022 Toyota Camry was traveling northbound on Euclid Street when it collided with a 2008 Dodge Caravan that was turning left from southbound Euclid onto eastbound Slater.

The driver of the Caravan was pronounced dead at the scene and identified as 54-year-old Thomas Leppin of Garden Grove.

Police said their investigation led to the suspicion that the driver of the Camry was driving under the influence. That driver was later identified as Kevin Cooper, 52. Cooper was arrested at his residence on Thursday, Aug. 10, on suspicion of murder.

According to jail records, Cooper is being held on a bail of $1 million, and was expected to make his first appearance at an arraignment hearing in the Central Jail Court on Friday morning.

Witnesses to the accident are asked to reach out to FVPD's Traffic Bureau at (714) 593-4481.
