School's back in session

Newport-Mesa Unified School District students returned for the new semester on Monday.

BY LILLY NGUYEN

School's back in session at the Newport-Mesa Unified School District, with about 18,260 students arriving at the more than 20 district campuses early Monday while about 340 of their peers logged in from home.

Later start times have been implemented in accordance with new state law geared toward improving educational outcomes by allowing for more sleep time for teenagers.

The law, approved in October 2019, went into effect this year and requires middle schools to start at 8 a.m. or later and high schools to start no sooner than 8:30 a.m. It does not apply to optional early classes, also known as "zero periods," or to schools in the state's rural school districts.

District spokeswoman Annette Franco said most of the campuses in Newport-Mesa already were at or near the 8:30 a.m. start time last year and that bus schedules were aligned to serve that schedule.

First period at five of the district's high schools — Corona del Mar, Estancia, Costa Mesa, Newport Harbor, Back Bay/Monte Vista — reflects that later start time with first period beginning at 8:30 a.m. Early College High School, a prep school within the district, opens to students at 9:05 a.m., and Cloud Campus begins at 8 a.m.

Bell schedules for two of the district's four middle schools — TeWinkle and Ensign — start at 8 and 8:15 a.m. The other two intermediate campuses, Costa Mesa and Corona del Mar, are aligned with the high school's bell schedule.

"It was motivating and uplifting seeing our students return to school on Monday. Parents waved their sometimes-tearful goodbyes as their students walked through our gates to begin the next chapter in their educational journey," said Supt. Wesley Smith in an email. "I have had a career of 'first days of school' and this one felt uniquely positive."

Newport-Mesa officials prioritize campus safety in new semester

BY LILLY NGUYEN

As students and teachers returned to classrooms this week, Newport-Mesa Unified School District officials continued to amp up their efforts to ensure campuses are prepared for any emergency.

"This year, we are focusing on working collaboratively to increase student achievement, expand whole-student support, improve communications and community engagement, and strategically address our facilities," said Supt. Wesley Smith in an email Tuesday.

"Of course, safety is always of paramount importance for school districts," he said. "We will continue the work of our

Laguna schools welcome students back to campus

The roar of school buses could be heard through the town Monday, as students in the Laguna Beach Unified School District returned to the classroom.

Eight buses pulled up to Top of the World Elementary about half an hour before the scheduled dismissal time, awaiting the arrival of children who were still buzzing with energy after seeing old friends and meeting new ones.

Some parents eager to hear about the first day of school shared relatable stories, including memories of pulled baby teeth and the scramble to leave a gift from the Tooth Fairy under a pillow.

All signified the reunion of community through the first day of classes, one that outgoing Laguna Beach school board president Carol Normandin described to colleagues as being among her favorite days of the year. Early in the morning, Normandin had accompanied district staff to El Morro Elementary, where she was among those greeting children as they headed back to their halls of learning.

"Greeting children in the morning like that, I think, is very unique to our schools," Normandin said. "Welcoming them, making them feel connected, is part of the mission of 'Every student, every day.'"

Normandin has stated she will not seek reelection following the conclusion of her second four-year term. She helped guide district decisions during the coronavirus pandemic.

Supt. Jason Viloria visited all four school sites, each of which he said has seen varying degrees of shifts in leadership. Julie Hatchel, formerly principal at Top of the World, is serving in the same position at El Morro.

Laguna Beach resident arrested after six-hour standoff with authorities

BY ANDREW TURNER

A six-hour standoff Tuesday with law enforcement ended with a Laguna Beach resident being taken into custody on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon and attempted murder.

Shaun Brant, 31, who authorities said is on formal probation, is accused of committing assault on his aunt. She reported the alleged incident involving her nephew at 10:20 a.m., police said.

Authorities responded to a home in the 31000 block of 9th Avenue, and the woman was taken to a hospital after it was found she had suffered significant injuries.

Brant barricaded himself in the residence into the late afternoon hours, refusing to surrender to authorities, which included Laguna Beach police, a joint SWAT team formed with personnel from Laguna Beach and neighboring Newport Beach, and K-9 officers from the Laguna Beach police and Orange County Sheriff's departments.

Police arrested Brant after tear gas was used at the home.

Laguna Beach police had put out a social media post detailing the police activity in the South Laguna neighborhood just after 3 p.m. Residents were asked to stay away from the area of 9th and 10th Avenues between Sunset Av-

Pedestrian struck and killed while crossing the street in Huntington Beach

BY ERIC LICAS

A car struck and killed a pedestrian who was crossing Beach Boulevard in Huntington Beach late Sunday.

The 42-year-old man who died was not in a crosswalk when he was hit at about 10:30 p.m., just south of Ellis Avenue, Huntington Beach Police said Monday in a news release.

The man, later identified as John Martinez of Huntington Beach, was taken to UCI Medical Center, where he died as a result of his injuries, Orange County Sheriff's Sgt. Scott Steinle said.

The black Toyota Camry involved in the crash was headed north on Beach at the time, police said. The 42-year-old Hemet woman driving the car was cooperative with investigators, and they do not suspect drugs or alcohol were a factor in the collision.

Woman drives through playground in N.B.

BY CORINNE PURTILL

A woman suspected of driving under the influence drove through a playground and into the waters of Newport Bay on Friday night, police and local media reported.

Newport Beach police arrived on the scene shortly before 8 p.m. to find a vehicle submerged in the water near the intersection of Via Genoa and Via Lido Nord on Newport's Lido Isle, Lt. Justin Morouse said Saturday.

The woman, who was driving alone, plowed through a playground at Genoa Park before entering the water, eyewitnesses told CBS Los Angeles. Bystanders ran to the car and rescued the woman, who was not seriously injured.

"I turned around and got a piece of the pipe from the railing and I just bashed both the windows in, and then from there someone was able to open the trunk and once they opened the trunk they had her out," witness Jehu Jogwe told CBS.

Police did not release details on the car or the driver, who was taken to the hospital for medical attention and then arrested on suspicion of driving under the influence. There were no other injuries, Morouse said.

HUNTINGTON BEACH'S AJ Vandermade runs up field against a Mayfair defender in a season opener on Friday in Bellflower. The Oilers defeated the Monsoons, 20-13.

H.B. football victorious in season opener

BY ANDREW TURNER

BELLFLOWER — Daunte Bell did not learn until Thursday that he would draw the start at quarterback in the season opener for the Huntington Beach football team.

He admitted to being nervous for the contest — his first with the Oilers — with a thirst to prove himself in his team debut on the road. The first half could have gone better for the Katella transfer, but back-to-back touchdown drives in the third quarter helped make Bell and his new team winners.

After being held scoreless going into halftime, Huntington Beach rallied to defeat host Lakewood Mayfair 20-13 Friday in a nonleague game at Bellflower High.

"I feel like winning [the opener], coming out with a win, I feel like it's going to make us push harder and come out in league harder, and it gives us a big boost," Bell said.

Bell, who completed seven of 15 passes for 130 yards and two touchdowns, had just one completion for a yard in the first half. The snaps went to Vaughn Popp (72 passing yards) in the second quarter, and then Bell took the reins again after the break.

Huntington Beach engineered a nine-play, 80-yard drive to start the second half, which Bell capped off with a nine-yard scoring toss to Nicholas Gentilella to tie the score at 6-6 at the 8:06 mark of third quarter. The Oilers forced a three-and-out possession on defense, allowing their offense to strike again less than five minutes later. Following a sack by Mayfair's Jake Snow that had set Huntington Beach back into a third-and-17 situation, Bell let the ball fly, and AJ Vandermade came down with it, running it the rest of the way for a 56-yard touchdown and the lead.

"I just had to adapt," Bell said. "I came out shaky. I was nervous. I'm not going to lie. I was nervous, you know, new football team, new players, my first ever game at Huntington. It's faster. It's a harder league."

Vandermade, who ended the night with 126 receiving yards, made significant contributions on both sides of the ball, punching out the ball for a fumble with

You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 800-683-2468 option 1 or visit this Internet Web site www.servicelinkASAP.com, using the file number assigned to this case 2022-05440. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not be immediately reflected in the telephone information or on the internet website. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 800-683-2468 option 1, or visit this internet website www.servicelinkASAP.com, using the file number assigned to this case 2022-05440 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. LAGUNA BEACH school board president Carol Normandin, center, welcomes students back to school at El Morro Elementary on Monday.

SCHOOL

The El Morro community was reeling following the death of then principal Chris Duddy, who had been on the verge of retirement at the time of his passing in May.

“Earlier on, when Chris was discussing whether he was going to retire or not, Jason [Viloria] had already started working with Julie [Hatchel] about that school, what that would be like,” Normandin said. “Luckily, it was well before we lost Chris. ... The conversations were already there. Chris was already helping her step into that space.”

“I think for Chris, consistency was so important, and for Julie, consistency is so important, so I think that the strengths that they have are similar.”

Meghan Schooler, previously an assistant principal at Thurston Middle School, is now the principal at Top of the World.

As dismissal time approached, a floral shop worker took a special delivery for one student into the main office at Top of the World. Rupert, a parent who did not give his last name, commented that he was nervous taking his first-grade daughter to school, even though he was not the one going to class. “We had fun with them for summer,” Rupert said. “It’s just exciting. They get to be with all their friends, and my kids enjoy school. They enjoy this school. It’s a great school.”

Viloria opened doors for students as they arrived at El Morro. Children also came across public safety personnel in uniform as they returned to campus.

“You see the same students coming up and talking to the [school resource officers],” Viloria said. “They know them. They see them on campus. They see them out and about in the community, and that’s really the purpose of the program — to establish that relationship early on with the students.”

Viloria added that when students see school resource officers like Fred Yeilding around town, they have already built a positive connection.

“Super grateful to the police department and the fire department,” Viloria said. “They reached out, as well, and asked could they be a part of pick-up and drop-off this week as much as possible. They like to have a presence, and again, it’s that nice local feel that we can do that not many other places can do.”

safety task force this year as we improve our policies, practices and facilities.”

District officials held a number of workshops at four of Newport-Mesa Unified’s high schools over the summer, soliciting ideas and thoughts from community members on how the district could improve safety on campuses for students and teachers.

Earlier this month during a regular meeting of the school board, director of student and community services Sarah Coley and director of risk management Jonathan Wilby gave a report on what came out of a task force formed from those workshops.

“It was a really great opportunity for our communities to come out. We had staff; we had a number of teachers who came out. We had classified staff. We had parents who came out. We had administrators who came out,” Coley said. “It was a really great time for everybody to come. We facilitated an activity to really gather their input under the areas of prevention, response, policy and facilities.”

Informing some of those concerns was the most recent school shooting at Robb Elementary in Uvalde, Texas, where 19 children and two adults were killed by an 18-year-old gunman.

Coley said the school safety task force is comprised of district staff, principals, secondary principals, teachers, classified staff, parents, students, school resource officers and fire marshals. The task force held its first meeting on Aug. 9.

Three other meetings will be held in September, October and November. The focus of the September meeting will be reviewing the information from the August meeting, Coley said.

Wilby described the first meeting as “foundational” to set the expectations of what the task force will set out to accomplish. A focus was the “I Love U Guys” standard response protocols, which Wilby said was piloted in some NMUSD campuses in previous years but was not fully implemented in light of the pandemic.

He said the protocols come down to five actions: hold, secure, lock-down, evacuate and shelter. “[It’s] creating a consistent language so that you can get people to act on what they need to act on,” Wilby said. “It’s much more nimble than the historical ways of preparing for emergencies, which was identifying every emergency you could possibly have and having step-by-step instructions that the emergency never goes exactly as planned. So, this gives you some ability to adjust based on what happens during the emergency.”

Wilby said the task force will be discussing those protocols further and will implement a districtwide tip line, which is expected to be rolled out this fall.

He also noted that custodians have checked all doors and locks at all the schools prior to the first day of school, a “proactive” move that was undertaken after reading the preliminary investigation released in the Uvalde shooting to confirm whether or not doors, locks and maintenance plans were working. Wilby said the district also built emergency drills and exercises into the compliance checklist for principals.

“The drills that we do are really driven by the [education] code, but this is getting it in front of the principals in one other place. We’ve also built Google folders that the principals will upload the reports from their drills,” said Wilby. “So, now that Google report or that Google folder is shared between the principals and myself so that there’s a little more oversight and communication on the drills between risk management and our school sites.”

Coley said the district will be meeting with school resource officers, who are expected to remain on campuses throughout the first week of classes. A third school resource officer is being added in Costa Mesa. Newport Beach already has three.

“This is kind of ongoing, it’s ongoing work. We know it’s never going to stop, but it’s really been a priority as we’ve gone into the summer and now as we go into the new school year,” said Coley.

Updates on what the task force will be working on will be available to the public at nmusd.us/safety.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 833-561-0243, or visit this internet website WWW.SALES.BDFGROUP.COM using the file number assigned to this case 0000009426214 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. Conlogue, Igarashi excel in Tahiti surf event

BY MATT SZABO

Sage Hill School graduate Courtney Conlogue got a long-awaited win.

Meanwhile, Huntington Beach resident Kanoa Igarashi also got what he was looking for out of the Outerknown Tahiti Pro, the final World Surf League championship tour of the season that concluded last weekend.

Conlogue, now 29, stepped up at the event on the beach of Teahupo'o in Tahiti, French Polynesia. She topped Brisa Hennessy of Costa Rica, 11.67 points to 5.20, in the final for her first World Surf League win in more than three years.

Conlogue, a two-time U.S. Open of Surfing champion, also beat seven-time world champion Stephanie Gilmore of Australia in the quarterfinals. She then got past Tatiana Weston-Webb of Brazil by a small margin, 7.66 to 7.30, in the semifinals.

"I'm so grateful," she said on the WSL webcast. "It's been so long since I've had a win ... great way to finish the season."

Conlogue's last tour victory came in April 2019 at the Pro Bells Beach in Victoria, Australia.

She wrote in a subsequent Instagram post Saturday that she was at a loss for words following her latest victory. It was her 13th overall on the Championship Tour.

"Yesterday was so wild," Conlogue wrote. "You always visualize a journey, but the journey always flows in unpredictable ways like water. I'm so grateful for all the love and support with this win. It has been an intense and emotional year full of challenges and the unknown.

Life is always showing you how to adapt, grow and handle. Yesterday tested my ability to do so. Thank you to everyone who has been in my corner and has supported this journey."

Igarashi, also a two-time U.S. Open winner, came into the event ranked No. 6 in the world. That left the 24-year-old one spot out of qualifying for the season-ending World Surf League Finals.

The finals, a single-day contest to decide the champions, will be held at Lower Trestles in San Clemente during a window from Sept. 8 through 16.

He advanced to the quarterfinals in Tahiti, which was good enough to bump him up to the Final Five, as he booked a trip to his first WSL Finals.

Igarashi caught a 9.70 wave at the end of his Round of 16 heat against Jadson Andre, which was enough for him to surpass San Clemente's Griffin Colapinto in the standings. Colapinto came into the Tahiti event ranked No. 5, but lost there in the Round of 16.

"I really don't know what to say — this is super emotional to me," Igarashi said in an interview with the WSL. "I'm lost for words right now. First of all, I want to thank Teahupo'o — I've been coming here for so long and spending time with some of the locals and preparing myself for a moment like this, and when that wave came I knew if it was meant to be, it was going to happen right there. Now, I'm into the Top 5 and heading home."

Brazil's Miguel Pupo was the men's winner of the Tahiti event.

The other men's surfers at the WSL Finals include Jack Robinson and Ethan Ewing of Australia, as well as Brazil's Filipe Toledo and Italo Ferreira. Hennessy, Gilmore and Weston-Webb will vie for the women's title, along with Hawaii's Carissa Moore and Johanne Defay of France.

Medrick Burnett breaking for the end zone in the first half. Nicholas Loboda made the fumble recovery for the Oilers, one of two on the night, as he also jumped on a loose ball after a botched snap by the Monsoons near the goal line.

It was a busy night for the Huntington Beach defense and their "Turnover Trash Can," as the Oilers continued to make plays down the stretch. With Mayfair threatening in the red zone again, Musashi Ray picked off Monsoons quarterback Evan Tomich inside the 5-yard line and returned it to the Mayfair 30.

The flipped field position was key, as the Oilers offense stalled out on the first series. Then Nathan Tauanuu delivered the knockout blow, a 31-yard interception return for a touchdown to extend the Huntington Beach advantage to 20-6 with 5:55 to go.

Huntington Beach coach Brett Brown described his team's defensive performance as "unbelievable."

"We talked about being relentless, every day and every play, and they were," Brown said. "They didn't get down when we were down, and bend but not break, too, tonight. A couple turnovers in the red zone is huge."

Tauanuu, a linebacker, said he was motivated to play hard, knowing his senior season had begun when he got off the bus for Friday night's game.

"I was very hungry," Tauanuu said. "I felt like I had something to prove to a lot of people because a lot of colleges ... miss out on a lot, and I want to show them what's up, so I just had a little chip on my shoulder. I played as hard as I can with my brothers. That's all that matters."

Tomich threw for 226 yards and rushed for 79 yards. He connected with his brother, Owen, five times for 118 yards, including a 54-yard strike on the Monsoons' scoring drive at the end of the first half. Tight end Leroy Palu made a grab at the Huntington Beach 1 on the next play, and Burnett ran it in.

Matt Ward reeled in a 14-yard touchdown from Tomich with 70 seconds left to bring Mayfair within a score.
