LONG BEACH — Tennis legend Billie Jean King always said that “pressure is a privilege.” Playing in King’s hometown of Long Beach, Laguna Beach native Emma Lineback easily could have felt that pressure this week.

Lineback, a left-hander who is now a sophomore at UCLA, made her debut with the U.S. women’s water polo senior national team in a four-match exhibition series against Italy and Spain.

“I think there’s always nerves,” said Lineback, who turned 19 last month. “Nerves are a good thing. It means you care. It’s just how you handle those nerves. I personally just try to say, ‘I’m nervous, I’m aware of it, but I’m not going to let it affect me negatively.’”

Lineback’s play was a positive for Team USA on Wednesday in the series finale. She scored Team USA’s first goal on the power play, and added an assist in an 11-10 win at Long Beach City College.

before losing to Spain 9-5 on Monday. But the Americans rebounded for a 15-10 win over Italy on Tuesday before Wednesday’s victory.

Lineback played in three of the four matches, totaling four goals, an assist and a field block. There was familiarity there, as she has played with Maddie Musselman and Ava Johnson at UCLA and Team USA’s assistant coach was former Breakers coach Ethan Damato.

Arrests made at weekend DUI checkpoint

BY ANDREW TURNER

The Costa Mesa and Fountain Valley police departments performed DUI and driver’s license checkpoints within their city limits on Friday night.

Costa Mesa, working in conjunction with the Santa Ana division of the California Highway Patrol, stopped 304 vehicles at its checkpoint set up at Newport Boulevard and Flower Street.

Officers performed 43 field sobriety tests and made 14 arrests for driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs. A driver was also taken into custody for public intoxication and resisting arrest, police said.

There were eight tickets written for driver’s license violations, and 12 vehicles were impounded.

The checkpoint saw 1,856 vehicles pass through it between 8 p.m. and 2 a.m. on Friday evening.

Costa Mesa Police Sgt. Dan Miles, of the department’s traffic safety bureau, said the law enforcement agency receives funding from the Office of Traffic Safety that aids in holding the checkpoints. The department has been aiming to have four DUI checkpoints annually for multiple years, he said.

Miles said checkpoints are an educational tool, so while Newport Boulevard may be an area that sees a high volume of traffic, the DUI enforcement operation is moved around the city.

“If you can educate one person and get them from getting out there and drinking and driving, then we saved a life,” Miles said. “... I’ve arrested over 1,200 DUIs in my career personally,

Highest king tides expected, agency seeks photos for project

BY LILLY NGUYEN

There might never be a white Christmas in coastal Orange County, but does white sea foam count?

King tides will occur up and down California’s coastline this weekend and are expected to reach heights of 7 feet between 8 and 9 a.m. on Friday and Saturday, according to meteorologists at the National Weather Service’s San Diego station.

The California Coastal Commission noted this weekend’s tides will be the highest of the year and asks members of the public to help safely document them by photographing the experience as part of its California King Tides Project.

“King tides” is a nonscientific designation used to refer to exceptionally high tides. They occur when there is gravitational alignment between the sun, moon and Earth. Coastal Commission officials said the king tides allow researchers to see what higher sea levels — caused by human-induced sea level rise — will be like in the near future.

The project was first launched in the winter of 2010.

Photos taken for the California King Tides Project are to be used to document current flood risks, see impacts of future sea level rise, validate both on the ground and in climate change models and serve as a living record in the future.

Meteorologist Mark Moede said this weekend’s king tides might result in some minor flooding in places like Newport Beach, Sunset Beach and the Balboa Peninsula.

Newport Beach spokesman John Pope said that as much as the area could use rainfall, “We are fortunate that no rain is forecasted this weekend in conjunction with the king tides. The worst flooding problems on the Peninsula and Balboa Island have occurred when extremely high tides happened along with high rain-

County pulls plug on power contract

Citing transparency concerns and despite rate cuts, supervisors back away from the O.C. Power Authority.

BY MATT SZABO

Orange County Supervisors voted 3-2 on Tuesday to pull the county’s unincorporated areas out of a contract with the Orange County Power Authority.

Later Tuesday, OCPA learned that Huntington Beach, one of four cities that are founding members, could also be leaving the Community Choice Energy program in the coming months.

The county had decided late last year to enter into OCPA’s Joint Powers Agreement, though service was not set to launch in these unincorporated areas like Coto de Caza and Emerald Bay until 2023. But it pulled out at Tuesday’s Board of Supervisors meeting, with Supervisor Katrina Foley essentially casting the swing vote.

Foley joined Supervisors Lisa Bartlett and Doug Chaffee in voting to exit OCPA, which could cost the county an estimated $65 million. Supervisors Don Wagner and Andrew Do voted to stay in; Wagner sits on the authority’s board of directors.

Foley said she fully supported the concept of Community Choice Aggregation programs like OCPA. In fact, she put forth an item to possibly join another already established power authority early in 2023.

“I was so hoping that I didn’t have to make this vote today, but at the end of the day it just boils down to trust and transparency to me,” she said. “I don’t trust the information, and I don’t trust that we will be able to fix what I think are systematic operation problems [within OCPA] ... I don’t see that the rates are lower for renewable, sustainable energy and I don’t think that it is working.”

Three audits released this year, one by the Orange County Grand Jury and two orchestrated by the county, have raised questions about OCPA’s management, trans-

H.B. motorcycle officer injured in Long Beach crash

BY ERIC LICAS

A Huntington Beach police officer seriously hurt in a crash in Long Beach earlier this month remained hospitalized Wednesday, officials said.

The collision happened Dec. 7 at about 2:30 p.m., Long Beach Police Department spokeswoman Allison Gallagher said in a statement. The officer was on his department motorcycle and headed south on Bellflower Boulevard when a Toyota Scion attempted to make a U-turn in front of him near Asherton Street.

Officer Jeremy Roberts was on his way to work that afternoon. In the immediate aftermath of the crash, he managed to hand his phone to a bystander and asked them to call his wife, Katie Roberts, she wrote in an emailed statement to the Daily Pilot Wednesday. She found his mangled motorcycle at the crash site, arriving just moments after paramedics had taken him to a hospital.

"I had to collect myself before we got into the ER because I wasn't sure what I was going to see when I walked in," Katie Roberts said. "But I knew I needed

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 1-866-539-4173 or visit this Internet Web site WWW.SERVICELINKAUCTION.COM, using the file number assigned to this case 105852-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855) 313-3319, or visit this internet website www.clearreconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 105852-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. to hold it together for Jeremy's sake."

She said medical staff raced frantically around her husband as he was lying in a bed with a brace around his neck and wires connecting him to a variety of monitoring equipment. But he was conscious and appeared to recognize her.

"I breathed a small sigh of relief when they told me the CT scan showed no brain damage — and then an even bigger sigh when they had him wiggle his toes and I knew he wasn't paralyzed," Katie Roberts said.

He wound up suffering a cervical spine fracture, crushed and fractured vertebrae, a cracked sternum, a broken collarbone and wrist fractures. Despite his ordeal, the injured officer has every intention of returning to duty, Katie Roberts said.

"I knew this was going to be a long road to recovery but was so grateful he was alive to hold our kids again one day," Katie Roberts said.

She said her husband will need to attend physical and occupational therapy three to four times a week and has his next surgery scheduled for March. She will have to step down as an instructor for several classes she had been teaching in order to become his primary caregiver.

A GoFundMe campaign created to support their family during his recovery had surpassed its goal of $10,000, with 199 donors contributing over $17,200 as of 2:45 p.m. Wednesday.

"We are extremely grateful and humbled by the amount of support that we have received during this time," Katie Roberts said. She also thanked the staff at St. Mary's Hospital who cared for her husband, and members of the Huntington Beach and Long Beach Police Departments who visited both of them over the past few weeks to offer emotional support.

Roberts had been a deputy with the Orange County Sheriff's Department before joining the Huntington Beach Police department about seven years ago. He served as a patrol officer and a school resource officer before joining the motorcycle unit.

The driver of the Toyota cooperated with investigators and did not show signs of intoxication the day of the crash, Gallagher said. Neither speed nor distracted driving appeared to have been factors in the collision.

and that's 1,200 lives saved, in my opinion. Every DUI arrest we make is a life saved, and if we can prevent that, that is even better. It's immeasurable because we don't know who we're affecting, but if we can just reach that one person — ideally, we want to reach a lot of people — but if we just reach that one person that could have made that bad decision that one night that ended up in somebody dying, then we did our job."

Miles added that the grant money from the Office of Traffic Safety also helps provide bicycle, motorcycle and pedestrian education and enforcement, as well as patrols that emphasize primary collision factors such as red light, speeding and cell phone violations.

Fountain Valley police staged a checkpoint near Brookhurst Street and Heil Avenue during the same window, and officials counted 994 vehicles that passed through the checkpoint.

Authorities evaluated four drivers, two of which were arrested on suspicion of driving under the influence. Additionally, nine drivers received a citation for being unlicensed.

Pope said city staff will be stationed throughout the peninsula and the island in response to the high tides, in anticipation that some water will need to be pumped out of the streets. No major flooding is expected, he said.

"The other aspect of king tides is that what goes up must come down," added Moede. "We have high tides in the morning, but that will go to very low tides in the afternoon. For those that want to go and explore areas that are usually not exposed, that would be the time to go to the beach to do some tide pool exploration."

Moede said tides would fall to about -1.8 feet between 3 and 5 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. King tides will also return Jan. 21 and 22.

Musselman, the former Corona del Mar High and UCLA standout, was the Olympics MVP in Tokyo in 2021 and won her second gold medal. She did not play in the series as she is rehabbing a hip injury and in a pre-physician assistant program at Temple University this school year, but she was on the bench.

"I just came into this wanting to maximize the opportunity," said Lineback, who scored 40 goals as a freshman last year at UCLA, second on the Bruins to only Musselman. "There's so much to learn. Everybody kind of plays water polo a little bit differently, has their own style, so it's really to come here and see what I bring to the table versus what somebody else brings to the table. I get to learn new techniques, new skills and variations of ways to do things. There's a lot to learn from the veterans like [team captain] Rachel [Fattal]."

She gave credit to Johnson for helping open her up on her cross-cage power-play strike in the first quarter, which came after Spain had quickly opened up a 2-0 lead.

"What people don't see is that Ava is on the three-post, and she's completely occupying her defender," Lineback said. "Everybody always sees who scores, but you don't see what made that happen. I think that's really cool here, no one person is more important and we recognize those small things that lead up to the big things."

Fattal, a former Los Alamitos High and UCLA standout, was one of seven goal-scorers Wednesday for Team USA. In fact, the first seven goals were each scored by a different player.

Jewel Roemer and Jenna Flynn ended up leading the way with three goals each. Goalkeeper Ashleigh Johnson, like Fattal and Mussel-man a two-time Olympic gold medalist, had nine saves and a steal.

Roemer scored the match-winning goal, burying the near-side power-play shot with 1:35 left in the fourth quarter after a cross pass from Flynn. It was Team USA's first lead of the match.

Judith Forca led Spain with four goals.

"It's obviously always wonderful to finish a series or a bunch of games on a win, right?" Fattal said after the final whistle. "We had somewhat of a slow start in the game, but we definitely got it together and started playing a lot better toward the end. Spain is a really good team, and we're lucky to be able to play against them here at home, because we play against them often overseas and at big tournaments. It's a big win for us, and something we can draw a lot of confidence off of."

parency and pricing. But an independent examination of OCPA's finances presented last week by accounting firm Pisenti and Brinker found no business misconduct or irregularities.

Customers have three choices for service with OCPA, which serves as an alternative to Southern California Edison. The plans start with Basic Choice (38% renewable energy) and rise to 100% renewable energy.

Last week, OCPA approved rate cuts that, as of next month, would have customers on the Basic Choice plan pay 2% less compared to Edison's rates.

Chaffee lives in Fullerton, one of four OCPA member cities along with Huntington Beach, Irvine and Buena Park. He said during Tuesday's meeting that he opted out of service.

"When I opted out, I found it a very difficult process," Chaffee said. "The problem here is that we're putting people in the deal without them consenting in the first place ... My reasons are not based on an audit, although it does provide good information. My own experience tells me we need to get out."

Wagner, however, equated the vote with "throwing the baby out with the bath water." He maintained that any issues with openness and transparency can be successfully addressed.

In a statement released Tuesday night, OCPA officials said they were disappointed in the vote.

"The OCPA Joint Powers Authority (JPA) agreement creates a firewall between the county and OCPA finances and liabilities," the statement read in part. "Withdrawing from OCPA removes consumer choice and market competition, adds dirty power to the energy grid, raises rates, and creates an unnecessary liability for the county. OCPA is financially stable and delivering on its clean energy goals. We will have more information on the next steps in the days ahead."

HUNTINGTON BEACH CITY COUNCIL EYES PROGRAM PIVOT

In Huntington Beach on Tuesday night, the City Council unanimously approved an agenda item submitted by Mayor Pro Tem Gracey Van Der Mark and Councilman Casey McKeon, directing the city manager to present options at the Jan. 3 meeting to switch Huntington Beach's default Huntington Beach's default OCPA rate for commercial and residential customers from the more expensive 100% renewable rate to Basic Choice.

Additionally, the item requested staff return before the end of February with options for removing the city from OCPA entirely.

Surf City was a founding member of the power authority in December 2020.

"We all want competition, but government is not the solution for competition," said McKeon, who along with Van der Mark was elected in November in a conservative sweep of four vacant seats on the panel. "The private sector is. The role of a municipal government is public safety, infrastructure, zoning and being a good steward of our finances, not getting involved in the extremely complicated and volatile energy business."

Councilman Dan Kalmick served on the OCPA board of directors this year, prior to the appointment of McKeon to that spot by new Mayor Tony Strickland. Kalmick noted that Edison had capped its list of 100% renewable energy subscribers, leaving OCPA as the only option for new customers who want that.

"If we're going to go back to the dirty mix and the lowest tier [of renewable energy], I want to understand what the replacement [greenhouse gas reduction] program is going to look like," Kalmick said. "... As someone who has ridiculed the power authority and the way it was rolled out, I still believe in the mission of providing choice in power costs and the ability for those dollars to come back."

HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

O'Shea steps down as CdM head coach

O'Shea led the Sea Kings to a CIF Southern Section title and an 80-18-1 overall record across his eight seasons.

BY ANDREW TURNER

After a highly successful eight-year stint as the head coach of the Corona del Mar High School football program, Dan O'Shea has stepped down, the school announced Wednesday.

Kevin Hettig, who served as the associate head coach and the team's offensive coordinator on O'Shea's staff, has been named the head coach, effective immediately.

O'Shea led the Sea Kings to an 80-18-1 overall record across his eight seasons. During his tenure, Corona del Mar made the jump from the Pacific Coast League to the Sunset League.

The Sea Kings advanced to three CIF Southern Section finals with O'Shea at the helm, finally breaking through in a banner year in 2019, when CdM went a perfect 16-0. That season saw CdM average a CIF finals defeat to Simi Valley Grace Brethren in 2018, and the Sea Kings went on to win the CIF State Division 1-A championship against San Mateo Serra.

O'Shea, who took over the CdM program when Scott Meyer departed for Servite in 2015, also led his teams to three Pacific Coast League crowns and two Sunset League titles.

School officials noted that O'Shea is pursuing opportunities that will afford him more time to spend with family.

"The decision was an extremely difficult one for me, but one that had to be made for the overall well-being of my family," O'Shea said in a news release announcing the coaching change. "Corona del Mar High School administration could not have selected a finer coach and person than Kevin Hettig."

A native of Yucca Valley, Hettig, 40, graduated from UC San Diego in 2004. He earned his teaching credential and a master's degree in coaching and athletic administration from Concordia University.

Hettig has helped lead the Sea Kings' quarterback to marked success, as several of them have gone on to play in college. Starting quarterbacks for the program since 2015 include Chase Garbers (Cal and the Las Vegas Raiders), Nathaniel Espinoza (Chapman), Ethan Garbers (UCLA) and David Rasor (UC Davis).

"I am going to miss working with Dan O'Shea," Hettig said in a statement. "Not only because of his great coaching ability, but because he is one of my best friends in the world. One of the things I value most about Dan is that he puts family first, and I couldn't be happier for him."

"CdM is the greatest school at which to coach. The kids are focused and hardworking, the parental and community support unparalleled. We have a great nucleus of returning players and some great up-and-coming talent."

DAN O'SHEA, center, seen on the sideline on Nov. 8, 2019, has stepped down as head coach of the Corona del Mar football program. The Sea Kings advanced to three CIF Southern Section finals with O'Shea at the helm.

The opportunity to become a head coach was not particularly on Hettig's radar, he said in a phone interview on Wednesday. In the end, it would be this opportunity or none for O'Shea's right-hand man.

"I was in no hurry to go anywhere, and any time anything kind of came up, I didn't even look twice at it," Hettig said. "I was very happy doing what I was doing with Dan and with CdM football. That is the truth."

"I wasn't looking for anything, and I definitely wasn't looking for this, but I'm more than ready for it. I think it's going to sound a little different sometimes, look a little different sometimes, but the core of the program I helped shape, and I wasn't going to walk away from that."

Hettig added that he intends to retain CdM's coaching staff. He assumes head coaching duties of a Sea Kings team that is coming off a season in which it went 9-4 overall and 3-2 in the Sunset League. Corona del Mar lost 51-20 at Yorba Linda in the Division 3 semifinals.

"We are so excited to have Kevin take over at the helm of our football program," CdM athletic director Brian Walsh said. "He has been such an integral part of this program's success and is well equipped to take on this new role. We are confident that he will continue to have a profound impact on the growth and development of our student-athletes and relentlessly look for ways to raise the expectations for Sea King football."
