Crowd welcomes Trump

Newport Beach police had help from other law enforcement agencies to keep streets safe as supporters gathered to witness former president's motorcade.

The Orange County Sheriff's Department, as well as the Costa Mesa and Huntington Beach police departments, joined forces with Newport Beach police and SWAT team Saturday when around 3,000 supporters lined Pacific Coast Highway and both entrances to Bayside Drive to catch a glimpse of former President Donald Trump, according to Sgt. Steve Oberon of the NBPB.

It was a colorful event for which people and dogs were clad in Trump-related outfits to catch a glimpse of the presumptive GOP nominee in this year's presidential race. The crowd started forming in the morning, a few hours before his early afternoon arrival in Newport Beach for a campaign fundraiser at a private Harbor Island estate.

CUSTOMERS WAIT to buy ammunition during the Crossroads of the West Gun Show at the OC Fair & Event Center in Costa Mesa in 2021.

Decision re-holsters plans for future gun shows like Crossroads of the West at the county fairgrounds.

BY SARA CARDINE

A federal appeals court this week upheld legislation banning the sale of firearms and ammunition on state-owned properties in California, holstering plans for future gun shows at venues like Costa Mesa's Orange County fairgrounds.

A three-judge panel of the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals in an opinion Tuesday dismissed claims made by gun show operators and proponents that such prohibitions violated the 1st and 2nd amendment rights of merchants and customers.

They concluded the legislation being challenged — Senate Bill 264, which banned such gun sales in Orange County starting in 2022, and SB915, which enacted a statewide ban one year later — restricted only the contracted sale of firearms, not any rights protected by the Constitution.

"B&L fails to establish that the challenged statutes regulate any speech cognizable under the First Amendment," wrote

O.C. judge sides with Carr in air show lawsuit

Ruling says former Huntington Beach mayor cannot be held liable for canceling the final day of the 2021 Pacific Airshow.

BY MATT SZABO

In a ruling Tuesday in the lawsuit Pacific Airshow LLC brought against former Huntington Beach Mayor Kim Carr, an Orange County judge supported her stance that she was immune from liability when the last day of the 2021 airshow was canceled due to an oil spill.

A lawsuit Pacific Airshow filed against the city of Huntington Beach for canceling that final day of the show was settled for at least $5 million last year. But a separate lawsuit against Carr individually continued.

"This court concludes that Carr's alleged 'unilateral decisions' to cancel the remainder of the 2021 airshow after the oil spill occurred on Oct. 21, 2021 qualifies as a discretionary act within the meaning of [government code]," Orange County Superior Court Judge Jonathan Fish wrote in Tuesday's ruling.

Fish ruled Pacific Airshow LLC can amend its complaint, so the lawsuit could potentially continue.

"A win is a win," Carr said in a text message to the Daily Pilot Tuesday afternoon. "It will be interesting to see if they amend their complaint. The ruling was pretty clear."

Suspect in nurse's murder stopped near border

BY SARA CARDINE

Huntington Beach police detectives have arrested a 35-year-old Diamond Bar man suspected of involvement in the May 31 murder of a traveling nurse found dead inside a local residence.

Christopher Daniel Mendez, 35, was detained Friday at an undisclosed location near the U.S.-Mexico border, according to a Huntington Beach police news release issued Monday.

Detectives collaborated with U.S. Customs and Border Protection, the state department's Bureau of Diplomatic Security and the U.S. Consulate General in Tijuana to locate Mendez, who was apprehended Friday at around 5:30 p.m. while trying to re-enter the U.S. from Mexico, according to police.

Newport Harbor musicians visit Beantown

About 40 flew east over Memorial Day weekend to perform and to learn U.S. history on-site.

BY LILLY NGUYEN

When they first heard a group of Newport Harbor High School musicians would head to Boston over Memorial Day weekend, most of the students involved just thought going on a cross-country trip with their friends sounded like a fun adventure.

But what instrumental music instructor Andrew Julian hoped for was that the students would come out feeling like they'd grown not only as musicians but as people.

"We perform a lot in the beach communities here — Costa Mesa, Newport Beach," Julian said. "With everything, we have about 50 performances altogether, including the Balboa Island Parade. But it's all in this bubble. [Trips] are opportunities for us to go and represent our school in a significantly different environment than what they're used to. "Some of them have never been up to Los Angeles, so they've never seen a major metropolitan city. This was an opportunity to leave the West Coast and go to the opposite end of the country where, let's face it, culturally it's different.

"All of those experiences allow for personal growth but also as musicians. It's really important to me to make those opportunities for my students."

The previous school year, Julian had reached out to Music Celebrations International, which helps provide opportunities to performance groups to attend and participate in events. When they'd asked what cities he was interested in, Julian threw out a few names. New York, Chicago, Boston.

Last September, students in the school's wind ensemble and

First-time politician adds name to H.B. council race

BY MATT SZABO

Cody Cleary has announced he is running for Huntington Beach City Council this fall.

The 30-year-old is running for public office for the first time.

"I never really thought I'd lead my career to politics," he said. "But living in this city, it's been pretty diverse right now. Everyone's divided on pretty big issues ... and I just felt like it was time for me to step up and be a voice for my community."

Cleary, who is gay, said his background is in the entertainment and restaurant industries. He's been a promoter for pageants and put on big events for the gay community.

In Huntington Beach, he has kept track of recent battles over the public library, as well as Measure B, a charter amendment that passed in March and states that only government and military flags may be flown on city property, excluding the LGBTQ+ Pride flag.

"I want to really give a spot at the table for the marginalized communities and the LGBTQ community," he said, adding that affordable housing units and lower taxes are top priorities of his.

CODY CLEARY is running for Huntington Beach City Council.

Three spots will be up for grabs in the November City Council election. Incumbents Dan Kalmick, Natalie Moser and Rhonda Bolton, who currently comprise a Democratic minority, are each expected to run for another term.

Kalmick, Moser and Bolton face opposition from former U.S. Navy Seal Chad Williams and current Planning Commissioners Don Kennedy and Butch Twinning, who are running as a group. They seek to take the spots and turn the City Council into an all-conservative panel.

Former mayors Erik Peterson and Kim Carr have also filed candidate intention statements since the 2022 election, though Carr said she is not running. Amory Hanson, Brian Burley, Shawn Kirby, Marissa Jackson and Hector Valdez are the other potential candidates who have filed candidate intention statements since the last election.

Candidates may officially declare for the November election between July 15 and Aug. 9.

Arrest made in 2023 traffic collision that killed N.B. man

BY LILLY NGUYEN

An arrest was made in a fatal traffic collision that killed John Robert Gilroy in the fall of last year, according to the Newport Beach Police Department.

On Sept. 30, officers responded to the intersection of MacArthur Boulevard and Bowsprit Drive at 4:33 p.m. after a traffic collision was reported. Police found Gilroy, 86, who was declared dead at the scene.

In a news statement Wednesday, the department announced it arrested Andrew Bilal Awad last week on suspicion of vehicular manslaughter with gross negligence, following an investigation between local authorities and the Orange County district attorney's office.

Awad, a 35-year-old

Costa Mesa resident, is believed to have engaged in a street race prior to the collision, officials said.

No plea has been entered, according to court records, but Awad is expected for a pretrial settlement conference at the West Justice Center on June 21.

Classic watercraft celebrated in Newport

BUNKER HILL SITS in the salon of his 42-foot 1924 custom-built SeaCraft wooden vessel during the Newport Beach Wooden Boat Festival Saturday. The Balboa Yacht Club hosted the eighth annual event.

Among three first-time entries of Balboa Yacht Club's eighth annual Newport Beach Wooden Boat Festival was Newport Beach resident Evan Krisher with his 28-foot 2002 mahogany-carbon runabout, which he named the Godfather. Krisher purchased the boat from Orange Coast College after it was donated by the family of its previous owner, who had died. As he was disassembling the boat he found a towing card with that owner's name on it and was able to connect with his son, who sent him a box containing the craft's original building plans.

"I spent six months taking it down to bare wood after its original factory varnish was aged from 2002," said Krisher. "I thought I basically stole the boat from the college for 40K; little did I know I [would spend] more to restore it than I paid for the boat."

Jason Armstrong displayed his 65-foot trawler, a 1966 Drake, for the first time at the show. Armstrong said the vessel, named Vintage, was made to go to Baja in the 1960s and '70s "and we still fish [off] this boat a lot."

Cory Glass, also of Newport Beach, named his 19-foot 1938 Chris-Craft after his mother, Jackie Mae. Glass, who spent nine months doing restoration, is the fourth owner of the vessel and keeps a history album of original paperwork, photos and stories of previous owners.

This year's festival also included a successful online silent auction of on- or near-the-water experiences donated by individuals and businesses in support of the festival's efforts toward "maritime education, preservation and recreation," according to the event's website.

last month that Huntington Beach and City Atty. Michael Gates must release the full settlement document with the air show. The state auditor is also expected to examine that settlement.

In its lawsuit against Carr, Pacific Airshow argued the former mayor made a unilateral decision to cancel the final day of the show at least partly out of animosity toward air show operator Kevin Elliott.

Carr has repeatedly said that she did not have the power to unilaterally cancel the air show, and did not do so, indicating that the city manager, police chief and fire chief aided in the decision.

Pacific Airshow LLC attorney Suoo Lee argued during a hearing in the case Monday that any decision should have required a public hearing and a council meeting and vote.

"None of that happened," Lee said. "This decision to cancel the air show came from the mind of one person only."

Mark Austin, Carr's attorney, disputed that Carr canceled their air show on her own. But he said even if she had, she was using her discretion as a mayor in an emergency, not acting outside of her powers.

"They just can't have it both ways," he said.

Carr said she believes the lawsuit targeted her to hurt her chances in the 2022 state Senate race in District 36. Carr lost the race to Janet Nguyen.

"This is all an attempt to defame me and to discredit me," Carr said at the courthouse after Monday's hearing and before the ruling was announced. "It's a frivolous lawsuit, it's baseless. There's absolutely no reason why my name should have ever been brought into this, and there's absolutely no reason why this [current] City Council should have settled for anything."

Police investigate fatal stabbing believed to be gang related

BY SARA CARDINE

Costa Mesa police are investigating a fatal stabbing that took place Tuesday night near a business on Placentia Avenue, an incident believed to be part of a wider gang-related attack that included an assault on a second victim.

Officers responding to a call of a possible assault with a deadly weapon on the 1700 block of Placentia Avenue shortly before 11 p.m. Tuesday arrived on scene to find a 22-year-old man with multiple stab wounds lying on the ground, according to a Costa Mesa Police Department release issued Wednesday.

Costa Mesa Fire Department's Battalion Chief Chris Coates said a crew arrived and attempted to perform life-saving measures on the adult male victim but were unsuccessful. The man, whose identity was not being released by police Wednesday, was pronounced dead at the scene.

Police soon after learned that a second victim, described as a 19-year-old man, had been attacked minutes before the stabbing near the intersection of Placentia Avenue and Shalimar Drive, according to the release. He reportedly suffered minor injuries and was transported to a nearby hospital by family members.

Both victims are described as Latino. Investigators believe the same suspects were involved in both incidents and were possible gang members.

Social media posts by local residents who witnessed the aftermath of Tuesday's incident showed investigators had taped off vast areas surrounding a Mini Mart & Liquor store at 1746 Placentia Ave. and a coin laundry business next door.

Officers appeared to be processing the scene inside that area, which included an adjacent apartment complex, into the morning hours Wednesday.

Wednesday afternoon no arrests had yet been made, and information on the suspects or their possible whereabouts were not being released to the public.

Anyone who may have information on the incidents is asked to contact Det. Ramon Hernandez at (714) 754-5097.

GUN

Judge Richard R. Clifton. "A 'celebration of gun culture,' in the words of one of B&L's briefs, can still take place on state property, as long as that celebration does not involve contracts for the sale of guns."

The panel further maintained the laws did not conflict with 2nd Amendment rights to keep and bear arms, in that they only curtailed an individual's ability to agree to buy firearms while physically present at the events.

"The plain text of the Second Amendment does not cover B&L's proposed conduct — namely, contracting for the sale of firearms and ammunition on state property," judges wrote.

State Sen. Dave Min (D-Irvine) authored the bills to effectively close what he calls a gun show loophole that allows the sales of illegal unregistered ghost guns, straw sales and the theft of guns from unwitting vendors. He called Tuesday's decision a win-win for Orange County and California families "sick and tired of senseless gun violence."

"I hope that in my lifetime, we will return to being a society where people's lives are valued more than guns, and where gun violence incidents are rare and shocking rather than commonplace as they are today," Min said in a statement following the court decision.

Gun advocates led by Utah-based B&L Productions, Inc., doing business as Crossroads of the West, first took aim at the two bills in a complaint filed with the U.S. District Court on Aug. 12, 2022.

They sought to end all bans on commercial transactions involving guns and firearms, contending they prevent law-abiding citizens from making legal purchases while learning about firearm safety, laws and their constitutional rights.

Siding with plaintiffs in an Oct. 30 ruling, U.S. District Court Judge John W. Holcomb said California's legislation was too broad and appeared to be an attempt to ban "gun culture."

"California's interest in stopping crimes committed with illegal weapons, as important as it is, cannot justify prohibiting the complete sale of lawful firearms at gun shows, especially when those same firearms are available for purchase at regular gun stores," he wrote in his opinion.

Holcomb's ruling granted a preliminary injunction halting the bans and calling upon operators of California's county fairsgrounds to immediately resume scheduling legal gun shows.

Locally, officials with the Orange County Fair & Event Center, which operates as the state's 32nd District Agricultural Assn., complied, booking multiple Crossroads of the West gun shows at the Costa Mesa fairgrounds in January, March and November.

The first two shows this year brought in a combined $371,096 in revenue, including rental agreements, parking and food and beverage commissions, according to OCFEF spokeswoman Terry Moore.

Moore said OCFEF Chief Executive Director Michele Richards had been notified of the outcome of the federal appeal but was unclear about next steps and had reached out to the center's legal team for advice regarding future Crossroads of the West bookings.

Crossroads of the West operators did not respond to a request for comment, but on Tuesday members of the California Rifle and Pistol Assn. said they were disappointed in the ruling and will "continue to pursue all avenues to restore and protect gun shows in California."

"[We] will continue to protect the despised gun culture and fight back against an overreaching government that seeks to limit disfavored fundamental rights and discriminate against certain groups of people on state property," the organization said Tuesday. "CRPA looks forward to seeing this misguided decision reversed in short order."

In his statement Tuesday, Min said he was saddened to see the resumed pace of gun shows appear to increase, both in Orange County and statewide, in the months following Holcomb's District Court ruling in October, but he was hopeful about the appellate opinion.

"Today's ruling is a step in the right direction," he said.

Nicole Karin Marquises, 35, of Walnut. The two were reportedly dating, investigators said.

Officers first responded to a call placed at around 2:30 p.m. on May 31 regarding a possible suspicious death at a residence on the 1100 block of England Street in Huntington Beach. That's where they discovered Marquises' body and immediately began an investigation to locate a possible suspect.

Mendez was, as of Monday, in custody and being held on $2-million bail. He is due to appear in court Thursday for an arraignment hearing.

The investigation remains ongoing, and no additional details have been released at this time. Further information on the initial press release and updates can be found online on the Welcome to Huntington Beach website.

Anyone with information related to this incident is asked to call Det. Richard Chen at (714) 536-5653. To remain anonymous, contact OC Crime Stoppers at (855) TIP-OCCS or (855) 847-6227.

orchestra learned they'd be performing in the city affectionately nicknamed Beantown.

About 40 students went, with their trips paid for either by fundraising, scholarships through the Newport Harbor Education Foundation or their parents.

Julian said they capitalized on using the trip as a teaching opportunity for students to learn more about the American Revolution. In addition to their performances, they visited Plymouth, Concord and Lexington.

Rising senior Kat Espinoza, who plays violin, said the Boston trip was her last band trip before she would graduate next June. She said she loved traveling with friends and wanted to perform in a space she'd never been before.

Heather Rivard, a sophomore, said she thought the trip was a good way for her to close out her school year.

"I knew we were going somewhere, but I didn't think we'd leave California. The talk of a trip didn't make me want to join band. I already wanted to, but I was definitely more intrigued," Rivard said.

One of her favorite memories of the trip was seeing the Blue Man Group live with her fellow musicians and the dinner that they had shortly afterward, which she described as almost a like a family get-together.

"I think these trips are really cool. We get to see places that we might not have otherwise. If not for band, I don't think I would've gone to Boston," Rivard said. "Even though it's kind of expensive, we really made the most out of every day going with the school. We came back to the hotel almost every day at 9:30 [p.m.] and there was not a time where we were sitting around."

Jack Douglas, a junior who plays the violin, said he didn't know much about Boston prior to the trip beyond that it holds a prominent place in American history.

His favorite of the band's two performances was at First Church in Cambridge, where he said the acoustics were phenomenal.

Espinoza and Rivard said their favorite performance was the one held at Quincy Market, where the group attracted a crowd of on-lookers.

"It's just very cool to see these places and play at these places; it's so different than home. It's all very different than California," said Douglas.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (855) 313-3319 or visit this Internet website www.clearreconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 120392-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855) 313-3319, or visit this internet website www.clearreconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 120392-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. GOP faithful stage Trumptilla boat parade statement flags. Various genres of music played loudly on boomboxes here and there, next to stands with vendors peddling Trump-themed merchandise.

BOATS OF ALL sizes were part of the Trumptilla parade of more than 100 boats Sunday in Newport Harbor.

A LARGE SAILBOAT bearing a huge American flag navigated the narrow waterway among the moored boats in Newport Harbor.

The mostly peaceful gathering became riled with boos and shouts when a man riding by on a bike flipped off the crowd. A supporter toting a large red flag screamed a homophobic epithet as he chased another man who was videotaping on his phone. A police officer stepped in to verbally separate two bickering men.

Finally, just before 1 p.m. the motorcade turned onto Bayside Drive toward Harbor Island, and the crowd lunged forward beyond the orange cones whooping and hollering as they aimed their phone cameras at the former president.

One day after Donald Trump attended a campaign fundraiser at a Harbor Island estate, the harbor itself was awash with boats filled with supporters of the former president.

The Trumptilla boat parade, first conceived in 2020, returned to Newport Harbor Sunday afternoon in support of the former president's bid to return to the White House. It was organized by a group called SoCal Patriots. Another group joining the parade calls itself Trump Boaters of Newport Beach.

Slightly more than 100 boats decked out in American flags and Trump banners made their way around the harbor, starting at Lido Island and cruising along the Balboa Peninsula, Balboa Island and mainland before finishing on Lido.

Felipe Vetter, who viewed the parade from aboard his friend's boat, which was not in the parade, said, "It was truly an event for the history books to see a hundred boats gather to 'make America great again.'"

A cluster of Balboa Island residents watched the parade from the seawall at the end of Abalone Avenue.

Two men with in the carrot-top Trump hairstyle riding in a Boston Whaler were a hit with the parade watchers. "They were die-hard Trump fans," said one onlooker.
